THE START
THE WHO

Michael Smith
mike@slideheroes.com

SLIDEHEROES

A FOUR STEP PROCESS

WHO

- Who is our audience?

WHY

- Why are we speaking to our audience (identify their question)?

WHAT

- What is our answer to our audience's question?

HOW

- How will we deliver this presentation?

A FOUR STEP PROCESS

WHO

- Who is our audience?

WHY

- Why are we speaking to our audience (identify their question)?

WHAT

- What is our answer to our audience's question?

HOW

- How will we deliver this presentation?

GOLDEN RULE

OUR AUDIENCE IS THE HERO

We are creating a presentation that makes our audience the hero, meets their needs and addresses What Is In It For Them

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

KEN HAEMER, AT&T

"Designing a presentation without an audience in mind is like writing a love letter and addressing it 'To Whom it May Concern'

Ken Haemer, AT&T, from Persuasive Presentations.

AUDIENCE MAP

PERSONALITY

- What is the personality of your audience?
- What is their style, energy level, and emotional state?

POWER

- Describe the power dynamics of the organization
- How do decisions get made? Consensus / command and control?
- Who is the main decision-maker?

ACCESS

- What's the best way to reach your audience? How do they like to consume information? (Visual thinkers, text-oriented? Like data, intimidated by data?)
- Pre-reads? Will they have read it?

RESISTANCE

- Who are your 'friends' in court?
- What points might resistors latch onto?
- What questions are they likely to ask?
- What push-back might you receive?

The Start

PRINT TEMPLATE – I'LL WAIT

SOURCES OF ORGANIZATIONAL POWER

POWER WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

Power is the possession of authority and influence over others.

Power is a tool that, depending on how it's used, can lead to either positive or negative outcomes in an organization.

SOURCES OF ORGANIZATIONAL POWER

POWER WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

Power is the possession of authority and influence over others.

Power is a tool that, depending on how it's used, can lead to either positive or negative outcomes in an organization.

SOURCES OF ORGANIZATIONAL POWER

POWER WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

Power is the possession of authority and influence over others.

Power is a tool that, depending on how it's used, can lead to either positive or negative outcomes in an organization.

SOURCES OF ORGANIZATIONAL POWER

POWER WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

Power is the possession of authority and influence over others.

Power is a tool that, depending on how it's used, can lead to either positive or negative outcomes in an organization.

SOURCES OF ORGANIZATIONAL POWER

POWER WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

Power is the possession of authority and influence over others.

Power is a tool that, depending on how it's used, can lead to either positive or negative outcomes in an organization.

SOURCES OF ORGANIZATIONAL POWER

POWER WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

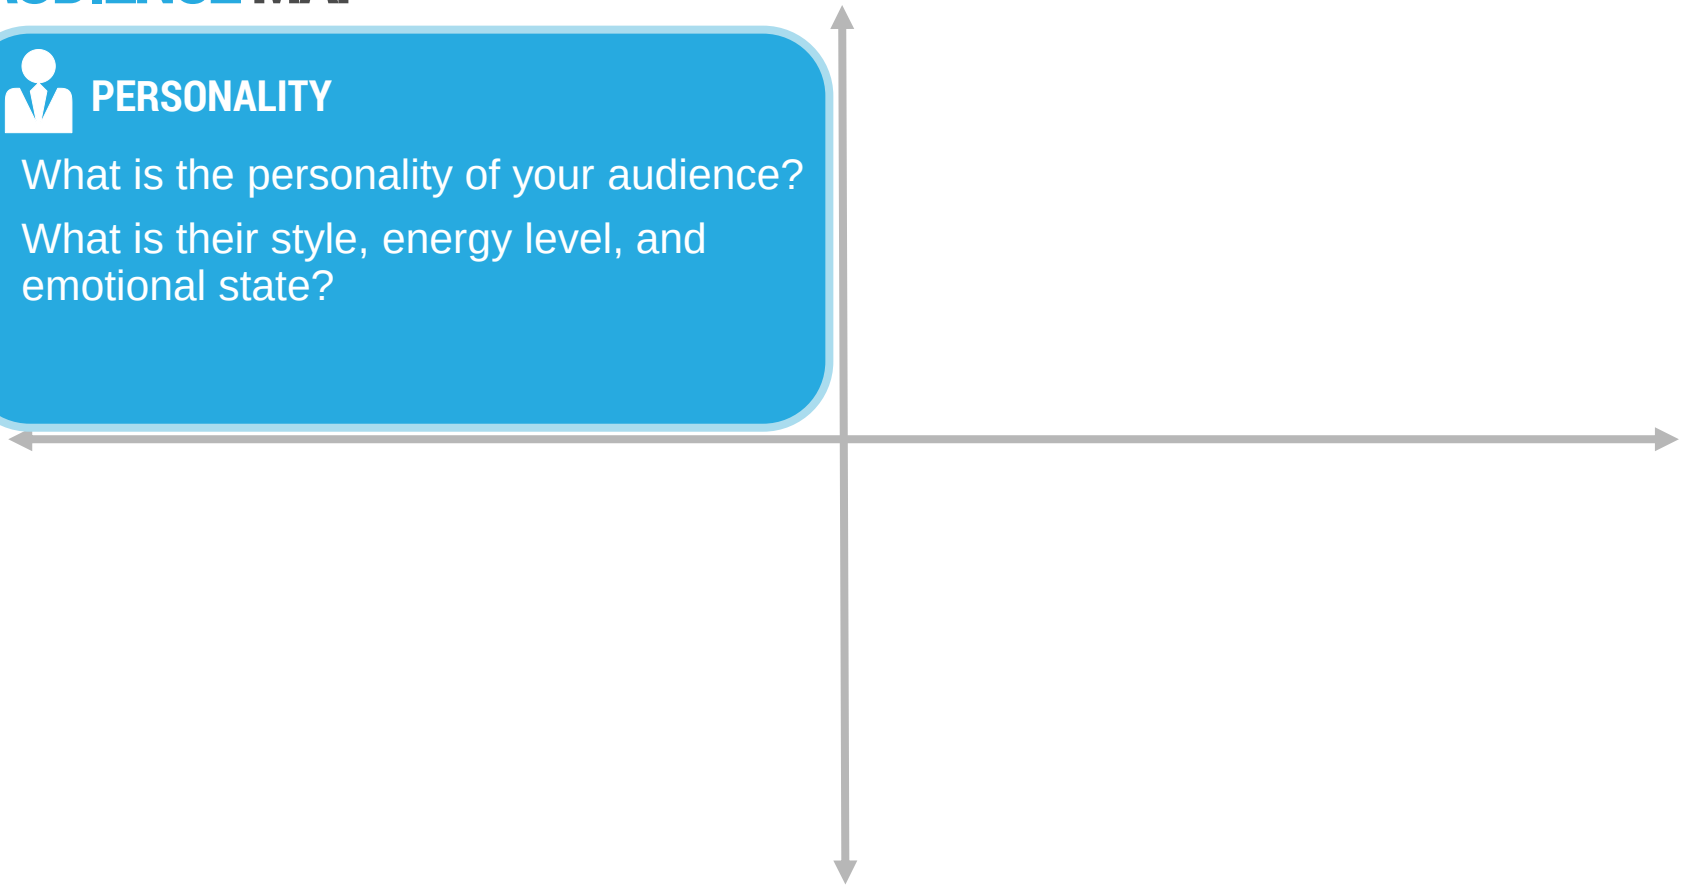
Power is the possession of authority and influence over others.

Power is a tool that, depending on how it's used, can lead to either positive or negative outcomes in an organization.

AUDIENCE MAP

PERSONALITY

- What is the personality of your audience?
- What is their style, energy level, and emotional state?



AUDIENCE MAP

PERSONALITY

- What is the personality of your audience?
- What is their style, energy level, and emotional state?

POWER

- Describe the power dynamics of the organization
- How do decisions get made? Consensus / command and control?
- Who is the main decision-maker?

AUDIENCE MAP

PERSONALITY

- What is the personality of your audience?
- What is their style, energy level, and emotional state?

POWER

- Describe the power dynamics of the organization
- How do decisions get made? Consensus / command and control?
- Who is the main decision-maker?

ACCESS

- What's the best way to reach your audience? How do they like to consume information? (Visual thinkers, text-oriented? Like data, intimidated by data?)
- Pre-reads? Will they have read it?

AUDIENCE MAP

PERSONALITY

- What is the personality of your audience?
- What is their style, energy level, and emotional state?

POWER

- Describe the power dynamics of the organization
- How do decisions get made? Consensus / command and control?
- Who is the main decision-maker?

ACCESS

- What's the best way to reach your audience? How do they like to consume information? (Visual thinkers, text-oriented? Like data, intimidated by data?)
- Pre-reads? Will they have read it?

RESISTANCE

- Who are your 'friends' in court?
- What points might resistors latch onto?
- What questions are they likely to ask?
- What push-back might you receive?

LESSON SUMMARY

PERSONALITY

What is our audience like?

POWER

What power do they wield in their organization?

ACCESS

What is the best way to reach our audience?

RESISTANCE

From what quarters is resistance likely? In what form will this resistance take?